Scientific Visa: fast-track to European research careers for non-European Union/third country nationals

The Scientific Visa package helps researchers to obtain a permission to enter, stay and work in the European Union Member States for the purpose of carrying out scientific research. It is designed to make the process of receiving a residence permit more easy for researchers wishing to carry out research for a short-term (up to 3 months) or long-term (more than 3 months) in the EU. EURAXESS Rights

The European Charter for Researchers and the Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers

The European Charter for Researchers and Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers were adopted by the European Commission as a Recommendation to the Member States. The 'Charter & Code' address researchers as well as employers and funders in both the public and private sectors. The Charter provides a framework for the career management of researchers, while the Code promotes open and transparent recruitment and appraisal procedures. Together they are aimed at developing an attractive, open and sustainable European labour market for researchers.

About EURAXESS Rights

EURAXESS Rights aims at better employment and working conditions for researchers throughout Europe, thereby helping to enhance the attractiveness of European research careers. One of the cornerstones of EURAXESS Rights is the implementation of the European Charter for Researchers and the Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers, guided by the Human Resources Strategy for Researchers. Other important areas requiring further work are the implementation of the Scientific User Experiences (within the context of Open Access) and issues related to work, mobility and careers for (mobile) researchers.

Human Resources Strategy for Researchers

To facilitate the implementation of the Charter & Code, guidance is provided by the "Human Resources Strategy for Researchers Incorporating the Charter & Code". This mechanism is put into practice on a case-by-case basis, and is as simple as possible, avoiding complexity and respecting the variety of situations across Europe.

The 'HR Excellence in Research' logo is awarded to research institutions and funding organisations that have been acknowledged by the European Commission for having made significant progress in implementing the Charter & Code.

HR EXCELLENCE IN RESEARCH

- > 400 individual endorsements of the Charter for Researchers and Code for the Recruitment of Researchers
- 1,200 research institutions and funders from 34 countries in Europe and beyond
- The 'Human Resources Excellence in Research' badge: awarded to institutions that have made significant progress in implementing the Charter & Code
- 83 institutions have been awarded, more in the pipeline. Badge is displayed on their adverts published on EURAXESS Jobs.

Social Security and Pensions

Researchers, as all other categories of workers, are increasingly confronted with issues concerning their social security and pension rights. What happens when they move, what can and cannot be transferred, what is regulated at EU level and what is regulated at national level, can be found from the information here.

Entry Conditions

EU national, or so-called "third country national" researchers have several possibilities to enter the European Union for work. The Scientific Visa Package, adopted in 2005, aims to facilitate third country researchers' entry conditions. The Blue Card Directive is more recent, and deals with the entry into the EU for the purposes of highly qualified employment.
