

Turks and Caicos Islands and the EU

The Turks and Caicos islands are “British Overseas Territories” whose development cooperation with the EU is based on Article 182 of the Treaty of Rome.

The Turks and Caicos islands are “British Overseas Territories” whose development cooperation with the EU is based on Article 182 of the Treaty of Rome.

The value of total merchandise trade between EU and Turks & Caicos islands has been increasing over the years. Exports from the island include clothes, chemicals and agricultural products.

The European Development Fund \(EDF\) has been vital for realising Turks and Caicos Islands’ transport infrastructure projects.

Through its European Consensus on Development it is clear that the EU is encouraging all parts of society to play an active part in shaping the futures of their countries.

Consultations involving NGOs, residents and government officials are regularly held when selecting projects for EU funding.

www.eeas.europa.eu

Source URL:

http://eueuropaeas.fpfis.slb.ec.europa.eu:8084/delegations/jamaica/2345/turks-and-caicos-islands-and-eu_en