The course is also open to those involved in programming, programme management and/or in political/policy dialogue in the wider context of SSR.

Priority is given to personnel from the EU Member States.

Aim

The course aims to enhance the knowledge, skills and competencies on the concept and principles of SSR as part of the EU’s comprehensive approach and other related EU policy and concepts in particular “the EU-wide strategic framework in support on Security Sector Reform”. It will highlight the key components of SSR, the various tools and techniques used by SSR practitioner and the challenges that an SSR advisor could face. It also develops examples of good practice through the collective sharing of experience and provides tools to address future challenges and assess the needs in relation to SSR. The course also aims to strengthen a network of SSR experts, with a common understanding of EU SSR.

Knowledge

- Define and differentiate between the notion of security, the security sector and security sector reform
- Explain the concept and evolution of SSR, including such issues as contexts, principles, programme areas and the highly political nature of SSR
- Describe the key policy frameworks and actors involved in SSR, including the UN, OSCE, NATO, and with a special emphasis on the EU and the Joint Communication to the European Parliament and the Council - Elements for an EU-wide strategic framework to support SSR
- Examine the challenges of supporting SSR in post-conflict or fragile environments
- Recognize key cross-cutting issues in SSR programming such as governance and gender
- Identify the major aspects of the assessment, analysis, design, development, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of SSR programmes
- Create a space for participants to share experiences and draw from personal lessons learned and good practices

Skills

- Build a practical understanding around the key characteristics of SSR based on discussions, exercises and case studies
- Demonstrate the importance of working complementarity across the various sub-components of SSR in post-conflict or fragile environments
- Place SSR within the international and national contexts, and explain how the context has an impact on the approach to be taken
- Improve collaboration with other national and international actors from the various segments of the security sector and related programmes

Competences

- Assess political commitment to reform, likely sources of resistance and ways in which its support can build constituencies that may come to support the change process
- Seek synergies with other international actors and seek to build consensus with them in the field of SSR programming
- Develop indicators to measure the success of SSR programmes as part of systematic monitoring and evaluation
- Discuss various dilemmas related to being an advisor
- Compare and demonstrate lessons identified and successes of the EU Comprehensive and integrated Approach to external conflict and crises in the field of EU support to SSR programmes
- Provide participants with theoretical and practical knowledge which will be directly applicable in their daily work as SSR practitioner.
Evaluation and verification of learning outcomes

The course is evaluated according to the Kirkpatrick model: it makes use of level 1 evaluation (based on participant’s satisfaction with the course).

In order to complete the course, participants have to accomplish all learning objectives, which are evaluated based on the active contribution in the residential Module, including their syndicate session and practical activities as well as on their completion of the eLearning phases: course participants finalise the autonomous knowledge units (AKUs) and pass the tests (mandatory), scoring at least 80% in the incorporated out-test/quiz. Active observation by the course director/lead instructor and feedback questionnaire filled by course participants at the end of the course is used.

However, no formal verification of learning outcome is foreseen; proposed ECTS is based on participants’ workload only.
